Fifth Sunday of Easter

April 24, 2016

First Reading: Acts 14:21-27

Paul and Barnabas traveled to many towns and found many disciples willing to help them preach. They warned their disciples of the trials they would face. Paul and Barnabas then returned to Antioch, where their journey had begun and told the congregation there of the progress they had made.

Second Reading: Revelation 21:1-5a

John had a vision of a new earth, and a new Jerusalem coming down from heaven. Then a voice described Jerusalem as a place where God would live among his people and comfort them. The former world had vanished, and pain, death and suffering had left the world as well.

Gospel: John 13:31-33a, 34-35

After Judas left the last supper, Jesus warned the other disciples that he would not be with them much longer. Jesus gave them a new commandment to love one another as he had loved them. He stated that their love for each other would distinguish them as his disciples.

Have love for one another.

THIS WEEK'S OFFERING.....	$17,657
LAST YEAR'S OFFERING.....	$13,853

From the Desk of Fr. Chris

The most common thing God does throughout all of scripture is speak. God spoke and the world came into existence (Gen 1). God called out and revealed himself to Abram (Gen 12:1). God called out to Moses from the burning bush to free His people from slavery (Ex 3:4). God called out to Isaiah to send him to prophecy (Is 6:8). "And the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us" (John 1:14). A voice from heaven is heard after Jesus was baptized "You are my Son, the Beloved, with you [whom] I am well pleased" (Mt 3:17, Mk 1:11, Lk 3:22). After the transfiguration the disciples heard a voice from the clouds "This is my Son, the Beloved, with him I am well pleased; listen to him!" (Mt 17:5, Mk 9:7, Lk 9:35)

As God is so active throughout all of scripture in speaking, it would be foolish for us to think that He has simply stopped. Rather as we can see throughout the history of the Church until our very own day, God has continued to speak to us, His people, both individually and through the Church, the mystical body of Christ. God continues to call out to us, inviting us into a deeper relationship with Himself through our own spiritual journey and in communion with the Church and society. The second Vatican council speaks of this as the Universal Call to Holiness,

"all the faithful of Christ of whatever rank or status, are called to the fullness of the Christian life and to the perfection of charity; by this holiness as such a more human manner of living is promoted in this earthly society. In order that the faithful may reach this perfection, they must use their strength accordingly as they have received it, as a gift from Christ. They must follow in His footsteps and conform themselves to His image seeking the will of the Father in all things. They must devote themselves with all their being to the glory of God and the service of their neighbor. In this way, the holiness of the People of God will grow into an abundant harvest of good, as is admirably shown by the life of so many saints in Church history." (Lumen Gentium, Vatican II 40)

Each person, in accordance with God's plan for his or her life, lives out this call to holiness through their response to God's call. While this can take the shape of a particular ministry, charism, career, apostolate, or volunteer work, the Church has traditionally focused on four major life vocations; Marriage, Single life, Religious life and the Priesthood. In marriage each spouse is called to sanctify the other through self-sacrificial love and through the raising of children. In single life, men and women embrace the gift of celibacy and grow in holiness through their work and witness of faith in charitably serving others. In religious life, religious priests, brothers (friars/monks, etc.) or sisters (nuns) strive for holiness by committing their lives to sharing in the life and mission of their religious community. They embrace the call to poverty, chastity and obedience, and nurture their call through a life of celibacy, faith, prayer and service. Through the Priesthood, men seek holiness by giving their lives in total service to the Church, by embracing the gift of celibacy and committing to a life of prayer. Priests proclaim the Good News, teach the Catholic faith, minister the Sacraments, work to build up their local faith community and lead their faith community in worship. The Church recognizes that each vocation is equal in the sense that no vocation is better or less than any other.

This weekend in a particular way the Church dedicates to praying for vocations to the priesthood and religious life through the World Day of Prayer for Vocations. For the past 50 years, the Church in the West has seen a dramatic decline in the number of priestly and religious vocations. While there is no simple answer as to why this has occurred, it must be recognized that in a special way the ministerial priesthood is necessary for the Church's existence and identity. Without the priesthood, there would be no sacraments... no Eucharist. Therefore it is imperative that we remember that all members of the Church are responsible for priestly vocations and the most favorable environment for vocations to the priesthood is within every Christian community that listens to the Word of God, prays with the liturgy and gives witness with charity. Vocations to the priesthood and religious life are born from vibrant and faithful Catholic family life. Children and young adults need to be able to see the importance of the Catholic faith of their parents, their weekly participation in the liturgy of the Church, and their support and encouragement of the community of believers through social functions and charitable work.

Through our good witness and our prayers for vocations, may we be blessed by an abundant number of vocations from our families and parish of young men to the priesthood and men and women to religious life. God is still speaking and calling out to each and every one of us. Let us pray for and help one another, especially young people hear and answer God's call.

MUSIC MINISTRY

Choir Member Highlight-Marie Kennedy

Marie Kennedy is a vivacious lady with a beautiful smile who loves to help others. Marie loves to sing and sang in choirs prior to singing with the choir at St. Patrick Church. Twenty-five years ago, a choir member invited Marie to join the St. Patrick Choir. Since then, her beautiful smile and dedicated alto voice have been ministering to the parish as a joyful choir member who loves to pray through music.

Marie grew up in Montclair where her mother's family had lived for four generations. She attended the same Catholic high school as her parents, and attended the parish church where her grandmother had been married at the turn of the twentieth century. In addition to singing, Marie enjoyed amateur theater in her youth. She is the oldest of eight children; and now has four children of her own and six grandchildren. She is caregiver for her 95 year old mother. Her family loves parties and Marie loves to cook for them. Marie is a hospice nurse at St. Barnabas Hospital. She also belongs to Soroptimist International, a volunteer organization for women's services.

Despite her busy schedule with volunteer service, work, and family, Marie finds time for choir, which is an important part of her spiritual life. As she sings, she enjoys encouraging the congregation to pray through music as she does. Marie explains, "Being in the choir is not just about singing. We are an extended family who learn and pray together, support each other through life's joys and sorrows, form friendships, and love to party with each other. We mourn when one leaves us and welcome new members with joy. Can you really ask for more when you are doing something you love?"

Thank you, Marie, for the immeasurable joy and spirit you have brought St. Patrick Parish for over twenty-five years!

Spiritual Adoption

Month 7: "I can look around!"

Beginning this month, the baby uses all four senses. The eyelids open and close and the eyes look around. The baby can hear, taste, touch, cough, yawn, hiccup and recognize the mother's voice. Hair on the head is growing longer and the downy covering on the rest of the body is disappearing. During this time, the baby receives antibodies from the mother, providing immunity to a wide variety of diseases.

Please continue to pray for our Spiritual Adoption baby.

Please participate in our baby shower to collect gifts for local crisis pregnancy centers the weekend of May 14th & 15th.

Many people ask when should we bow and when should we genuflect. We genuflect to the Blessed Sacrament. A genuflection, which is made by bending the right knee to the ground, signifies adoration, and for this reason is reserved to the Most Blessed Sacrament. Genuflect at the tabernacle where the Blessed Sacrament is reserved, and each time you pass in front of it (except when you're in procession, such as standing in line for Communion, or returning to your seat afterward). If the tabernacle is present in the sanctuary, then the priest, ministers and the assembly would genuflect upon the initial entrance.

corner

If the tabernacle is not on the altar, genuflect toward the altar and the altar crucifix. If the tabernacle is not seen from your position as you enter the church, you then BOW to the altar and/or crucifix. If the tabernacle is not present in the sanctuary, then the priest, ministers and assembly bow toward the altar. When a minister is carrying something (altar servers with the processional cross or carrying candles, readers or deacons with the Book of the Gospels) there is no bow made prior to entering the sanctuary. You will notice here at St. Patrick, our readers place the Book of the Gospels on the altar, come down and stand beside the priest, and together they reverence the altar with a profound bow. The Deacon will place the Book of the Gospels on the altar, then kiss the altar (as does the priest) to reverence the altar at the beginning and end of the Mass.
